

RELATIONSHIPS FOUNDATION Charity no 1106460

Trustees' Report for the year ended 31st August 2024

The trustees present their annual report and financial statements for the year ended 31 August 2024.

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the accounting policies set out in note 1 to the financial statements and comply with the charity's constitution, the Companies Act 2006 and "Accounting and Reporting by Charities: Statement of Recommended Practice applicable to charities preparing their accounts in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland (FRS 102)" (effective 1 January 2019).

Objectives and activities

The objectives of The Relationships Foundation are:

1. To carry out research into theological and ethical principles and economic and social issues concerning the organisation and conduct of human relationships in personal and public life by:
 - (a) carrying out and/or commissioning research projects, and
 - (b) evaluating the results of research projects and applying the same for the public benefit, in particular, but not exclusively, by sponsoring public initiatives.
2. To provide education and training to the general public in the promotion and encouragement of improved organisational and personal relationships.

In order to further these two objectives we work with political and civic leaders, private and public sector organisations, voluntary bodies and the general public.

A concern for relationships lies at the heart of the Foundation's work. Based on existing research the Foundation believes that good relationships are essential to individual and collective wellbeing, and therefore that a central goal of public policy should be to create an environment conducive to the formation and development of good relationships at all levels of society. Consequently it works to see the importance of relationships recognised and acted upon in public and private life through a combination of research programmes, practical initiatives and strategic partnerships which help to shape public policy, encourage best practice and equip people to think and act more relationally.

Public benefit

The trustees have paid due regard to guidance issued by the Charity Commission in deciding what activities the charity should undertake.

Achievements and performance

Significant activities and achievements against objectives

During the course of the year our activities have primarily been in the education sector and around the development of dashboards and automated reporting in the measurement of relationships.

Technology and relationships in schools

We concluded a project on how the use of technology by schools is shaping relationships. During the project, we had surveyed 160 classes in six countries, with over 1,800 relationships between teachers and pupils and over 40,000 pupil-to-pupil relationships. We found that the social and relational experience in school was highly valued by both pupils and staff, and that there is some tension between technology-driven personalisation and the relational experience of learning together. We identified ways in which the use of technology could better support relationships and how schools might support pupils and staff in this. We also started to explore with schools the potential impact of AI.

Relational evaluation of an alternative curriculum

A school was piloting a new curriculum for 20 pupils and wanted to track the development of relationships between pupils and with their teachers over the course of the academic year. This project demonstrated the value of our new dashboards in enabling better visualisation of the relationships and quicker feedback. Issues could then be identified and addressed including ways of supporting better integration of those pupils who were more relationally isolated

Flexi-schooling children with special educational needs and disabilities (SEND)

In collaboration with Bishop Grosseteste University we completed a small project to seek better understanding of the reasons why parents of children with SEND/ASN seek flexi-schooling arrangements and their experience of those arrangements. We surveyed parents who have requested flexi-schooling arrangements. Better understanding of parents' perceptions of their children's needs and experience of schooling will enable schools to provide better support.

Relational factors in early career teacher retention

Our resources to support early career and trainee teachers with Open University continue to be available. Follow-up interviews with trainees had found that early career teachers experienced moments of crisis. Understanding what relational support they could draw on helped guide career and life choices, such as type of school, role or even where to live. This knowledge also helped them identify which key relationships within their school and social networks could be nurtured to ensure support is there when they need it.

Alternative provision for excluded pupils

We continued to explore and promote some of the key lessons from our research in this area including the importance of reflective practice in supporting staff to build and maintain relationships with pupils and their families where these have previously been strained and the role of school leaders in building this relational culture as well as in creating the local system relationships with other schools, local authorities and health services work so that pupils are supported.

Developing relational policy and practice

We continued to conduct a wide range of collaborative discussions with other organisations around ways of measuring relationships and how this can support better outcomes.

Financial review

The attached accounts show that the Foundation incurred a surplus of £24,776 for the year. Free reserves at the end of the year were £15,990.

The Foundation continues actively to look for opportunities to work with organisations which wish to measure and improve the quality of relationships which exist both within and outside the organisation. While income from such work has been lower this year, donations have increased.. Last year, the Foundation took steps to adjust its costs to match future expected income. As a result, the Foundation is now again in surplus and has built a small reserve.

Reserves policy

It is the policy of the charity that unrestricted funds which have not been designated for a specific use should be maintained at a level equivalent to between 3 and 6 months' operating costs. The trustees consider that reserves at this level will ensure that, in the event of a significant drop in funding, they will be able to continue the charity's current activities while consideration is given to ways in which additional funds may be raised.

Major risks

The trustees have a duty to identify and review the risks to which the charity is exposed and to ensure that appropriate controls are in place to provide reasonable assurance against fraud and error. The systems of internal control are designed to provide reasonable, but not absolute, assurance against misstatement and loss. They include:

- an annual budget approved by the trustees
- regular written reports submitted by the CEO
- regular consideration of the finances by the trustees
- identification and management of risks.

Every year the trustees undertake a detailed analysis of the risks facing the Foundation and receive a report at a subsequent trustees' meeting. They agree the strategic risks facing the organisation and measures to be adopted to mitigate those risks.

Structure, governance and management

The charity is a company limited by guarantee under the Companies Act 2006, formed and regulated by its Memorandum and Articles of Association on 28 July 2004 as amended by special resolution on 7 October 2004. The company was registered by The Charity Commission as a charity on 27 October 2004. Prior to incorporation as a company the charity was governed by a Deed of Trust.

The trustees, who are also the directors for the purpose of company law, and who served during the year and up to the date of signature of the financial statements were:

Jeremy Lefroy, Sarah Dingley, Eleanor McCrone and Philippa Taylor

Recruitment and appointment of trustees

Invitations are extended from time to time by the existing trustees (who are also the members of the company) to suitably qualified men and women to become trustees. A matrix of trustees' interests and skills is reviewed every three years.

Newly appointed trustees are provided with a comprehensive pack of induction materials, including a copy of the Memorandum and Articles of Association of the company and of the Trust Deed. They have an induction with fellow trustees and the Director and are expected to spend time with other staff members, familiarising themselves with the workings of the charity. All trustees act as directors for any associated bodies that The Relationships Foundation maintains.

None of the trustees has any beneficial interest in the company. All of the trustees are members of the company and guarantee to contribute £1 in the event of a winding up.

Associated Bodies

The Relationships Foundation owns 100% of the shares and maintains the secretariat for Jubilee House Ltd which receives donations for the Keep Sunday Special project, which are then used to fund and promote research and campaigns. Jubilee House Ltd also developed copyright dashboards and assigned them to The Relationships Foundation in the previous financial year. The Relationships Foundation also owns 100% of the shares of Relational Analytics Ltd which is dormant.

Organisational structure

The charity is run on a day-to-day basis by John Ashcroft. Any decisions which would affect key aspects of the charity's policy or governance are referred to the trustees for discussion at their meetings, which are held at least four times a year and usually more often. In establishing governance policies and procedures the trustees have been guided by the Charity Commission's published advice and guidance.

I report to the trustees on my examination of the accounts of the above charity ("the Trust") for the year ended 31/08/2024

As the charity's trustees, you are responsible for the preparation of the accounts in accordance with the requirements of the Charities Act 2011 ("the Act").

I report in respect of my examination of the Trust's accounts carried out under section 145 of the 2011 Act and in carrying out my examination, I have followed all the applicable Directions given by the Charity Commission under section 145(5)(b) of the Act.
