2. Aims of the charity

Living Hope Project is a registered charity which supports the education of children and young people from disadvantaged backgrounds in Baddomalhi, Pakistan.

The charity has two main objectives:

1. To provide and maintain a school in Baddomalhi, helping children and young people to access education. Most, but not all, of those supported are from Christian families.
2. To provide a community and technology centre where adults can learn, receive training and develop new skills.

3. Activities during the year

The school continued to provide free education for children whose families cannot afford the fees charged by other schools. Priority is given to children and families experiencing poverty.

The school employs five female teachers, an administrator and a caretaker from Baddomalhi and nearby villages. This provides local employment and opportunities to develop skills.

The charity also provides low-cost computer sessions after school and during holidays. These sessions help boys and girls who have had little access to computers to use the internet and develop basic computer skills.

4. Public benefit and equal opportunities

The trustees have considered the Charity Commission’s guidance on public benefit. The charity advances education by supporting children and adults who may have limited access to learning.

The charity aims to provide an environment free from discrimination on the grounds of religion, sex or disability. Support is focused on people who face financial difficulties.

5. Trustees and management

New trustees are appointed by the existing trustees. Rev. Imran Malik is responsible for introducing new trustees to the work of the charity. All trustees gave their time freely during the year, and no trustee remuneration was paid.

6. Fundraising

We are thankful to our regular donors and to everyone who supported the charity during the year. New donors have also contributed through online donation services. Their generosity helps the charity continue its work in Baddomalhi.
