Foreword

At the beginning of 2025, we set out a five-year strategy for Teddy's Wish. Building on the achievements of the last decade, we outlined our plans to continue delivering high-quality bereavement support and funding vital research, whilst remaining intentionally small. We passionately believe there is real value in being a small and personal charity, allowing us to provide individual and thoughtful support to every family we look after. It means we can retain the warmth and personal connection that has always been at the heart of Teddy's Wish, ensuring bereaved parents feel genuinely heard, supported and cared for.

This year, we have placed an even greater emphasis on listening to bereaved parents within our community. Our first Teddy's Wish Focus Day in September 2025 brought together parents who had accessed our counselling, retreats and care packages, giving them an opportunity to share openly what had helped, what could be improved and what they would value from us in the future. Their feedback reinforced the importance of the personal approach that has always been central to our ethos and provided valuable insight to help shape the future of our services.

Through our bereavement counselling, retreats, care packages and our podcast, The Other Mothers, we are helping parents at a time when they can feel profoundly isolated and alone. The feedback we receive alongside the fundraising families we have supported have gone on to do on behalf of Teddy's Wish, is both incredibly moving and a powerful reminder of the difference our support can make.

We are also delighted to have launched The Wishes, a new fundraising initiative giving bereaved families the opportunity to create a lasting legacy in their baby's name while supporting the work of Teddy's Wish. For every Wish that joins our family, we create a bespoke logo designed especially for them, providing families with a personal and meaningful way to fundraise in memory of their baby.

Alongside our support services, research remains a fundamental part of our work. We are proud to continue working collaboratively with leading baby loss charities, including Tommy's, Sands and The Lullaby Trust, supporting research and initiatives that seek to better understand the causes of baby loss, improve care and, ultimately, save babies' lives.

As with every year that has gone before, we remain immensely proud of what Teddy's Wish has achieved. None of this would be possible without the commitment and compassion of our wonderful team, trustees and volunteers. As ever, we are incredibly grateful to every person who has fundraised, donated or supported Teddy's Wish over the past year. We could not do what we do without you.

Charitable Activities

Teddy's Wish Bereavement Support

Our counselling programme is free of charge and open to bereaved parents in the UK for a period of up to 18 months post loss. It provides parents with online support from clinically supervised, trained counsellors who are accredited with the British Association for Counselling and Psychotherapy (BACP). They have specialist expertise in supporting bereaved parents, with a deep understanding of the emotional and psychological impact of losing a baby, including complex grief and post-traumatic stress. Each course comprises 12 weekly sessions and is offered on a one-to-one or couple basis depending on preference. We also pay for supervision for our counsellors twice a month to ensure they are delivering support to the highest standards of ethical and clinical practice.

Access to our counselling programme provides parents with a safe space to work through their grief. It supports people to find a pathway to longer-term healing and aims to help reduce their vulnerability to developing serious and enduring mental health problems in future. All participants completing our counselling programmes complete a feedback survey from which we consistently receive positive results. 98% of participants say they would recommend our counselling support to other bereaved parents. In 2025, we delivered 508 counselling sessions and supported 45 families.

> "Thank you for the care, compassion, and understanding you've shown throughout this journey. The support from Teddy's Wish came at a time when I felt lost, and it truly helped me begin to make sense of my grief. Knowing that this kind of specialist support exists made a big difference to me, and I'm deeply grateful for everything you've provided. Please continue the incredible work you're doing it means more than words can express" Bereaved Parent

> "Once again, I just want to say thank you for the service and support I received. Celine was outstanding and I honestly feel it came at the right time when I needed her the most. She was my light at the end of the tunnel in the very dark and doom days I knew I was going to be speaking to her weekly and I will never forget Teddy's wish for giving me this amazing opportunity of 12 sessions. Thank you u so much" Bereaved Parent

> "The support we received from Teddy's Wish helped us feel less alone. It gave us reassurance that our feelings were valid, that Harry would always be remembered, and that there was hope for the future, even in the midst of unimaginable heartbreak. We will always be grateful for the kindness, compassion and support that Teddy's Wish showed our family" Bereaved Parent

Teddy's Wish Bereavement Retreats:

Each year for the last eight years, we have held a weekend residential retreat in the restorative surroundings of St Katharine's Parmoor in Buckinghamshire. These are offered free of charge to bereaved parents every year and are led by charity patron Jenni Thomas OBE and Nicola Whitworth. The retreats include group support, creative writing, a gardening with grief workshop, mindfulness meditation and yoga. They offer a safe space for bereaved parents to feel their grief, connect with the baby they have lost and share their experiences with other bereaved parents.

Parent feedback consistently tells us how beneficial the retreats are:

> "The weekend was a truly exceptional experience where we have connected with other bereaved parents and had in depth conversations where we felt heard and understood and on this journey of loss that is hard to find. I felt like my husband and I connected on a deep level over the loss of our baby boy. My husband voiced his thoughts and views on different topics that he normally wouldn't open up about. The retreat was so beneficial personally but also as a couple." Bereaved parent

> "The retreat gave us the chance to reflect on our grief and spend time with others that had experienced the unthinkable like us. It helped me to feel less alone and there were stories and advice that have stayed with me from the experts that hosted us that day. I am truly grateful for the support that I received, particularly in the early months of that first year, which were so hard and heavy. It can feel as if you are drowning in your grief and you can't work out which way to swim to the surface, so to be guided and supported by Teddy's Wish was invaluable" Bereaved Parent

Teddy's Wish Baby Loss Care Packages

Since 2020, we have been sending out baby loss care packages in partnership with our friends at Don't Buy Her Flowers. Our care packages are sent free of charge to recently bereaved parents to let them know that they are not alone in their grief and to connect them quickly to our baby loss community. This year we have paid for 96 care packages, taking the overall total to 720.

In 2025, we added a new care package to include a book written by charity patron Jenni Thomas OBE called "After a child dies – parents' grief". Inside the book are real stories of parents who have experienced the loss of a child as well as words of comfort and gentle guidance by Jenni who has over 60 years' experience of working as a grief counsellor.

There are now four packages in our collection

1. The book package- this includes a copy of Ask Me His Name, written by our charity patron Elle Wright, a scented candle, tea and biscuits
2. The Jenni Thomas book package – including a copy of After A Child Dies, a scented candle, tea and biscuits
3. The tea package includes an eco re-usable cup, biscuits and tea
4. The Bear package includes a Jellycat Edward Bear, biscuits, tea and a scented candle

> "I want to say, and will say this to anyone who listens, that I'm so grateful for the care package that was sent to me. This care package couldn't have come at a better time, and the book helped me realise that I'm not alone. Receiving this care package really put my faith back into humanity, so thank you!" Bereaved Parent

Mindfulness for Grief

This year we introduced free Mindfulness for Grief sessions delivered online by our retreat facilitator Nicola Whitworth who is also an accredited mindfulness teach at the Oxford Mindfulness Centre.

Offered to 10 parents per session, these offer a break from the demands of life and help parents to find a place of calm where they can gently connect and remember their baby.

The Other Mothers Podcast

Our podcast "The Other Mothers" was created as a free resource for bereaved parents - a space that feels like having a chat with friends over coffee - where the realities of baby loss can be spoken about openly and honestly.

Hosted by our Co-Founder and CEO, Jennifer Reid along with our charity's patrons Elle Wright and Caro Tasker, the podcast shares candid conversations about life after baby loss, alongside stories from bereaved parents, health professionals and leading researchers. The podcast helps listeners feel less isolated, whilst also educating friends, families and professionals.

In 2025, we completed our fifth series and interviewed Professor Alex Heazell, who spoke about the research activities Teddy's Wish has jointly funded with Tommy's, author Ali Harris, Rachel Burrows and Gina Reeves who are founders of the charity Ebony Bonds amongst other inspiring guests.

Bereavement training for Healthcare Professionals

Since 2021, we have partnered with Bereavement Training International (founded by Paula Abramson) to provide a programme of specialist bereavement training to NHS healthcare professionals. The training is designed for midwives and student midwives, obstetricians, neonatal, paediatric and gynaecology staff, sonographers, GPs and other primary care providers, health visitors, counsellors and chaplains.

This year we funded 4 training days at the following trusts to an average attendance of 45 staff in memory of Marley Oakes:

Gloucestershire NHS Trust

John Radcliffe Hospital

Royal Stoke Hospital

Imperial NHS Trust

Here is some feedback from participants:

> "It was so meaningful to hear the stories being told about Eddie from both parent and clinician perspectives. The emotions in those stories and the real wish on both sides that things had worked out differently and the ongoing emotional strain following the loss of Eddie will stay with me forever. I will have this in mind in all future consultations with bereaved families and I hope that this will help me to support them to the best of my ability" GP

> "This was such a brilliant study day, probably the best I have been in. I will remember what was said and how I felt for my whole career. It's given me a passion to implement change for the better in terms of bereavement in my unit. Thank you" Paediatric Consultant

Fundraising achievements:

We continue to be inspired by the incredible support of our fundraisers, who find so many different ways to raise vital funds for Teddy's Wish. Whether organising an event, taking on a personal challenge or fundraising in memory of their much-loved baby, every contribution helps us continue our work.

We would like to give a special mention and thanks to:

- Toby's Wish – Sade and Adam Byrne organised various events throughout the year including a sponsored walk in honour of their baby boy Toby and raised over £10,000.

- Cat Flynn for taking part in a Muay Thai fight and raising over £2,000 in memory of her baby girl Scarlett

- Marley's Wish – Rebecca and Matt Oakes organised their fifth hockey fundraiser match in memory of their baby boy Marley. The 'Be More Marley' day takes place at Oxford Hawks and raised just under £5,000. We are also grateful to their friend Tracy Banham for completing the London to Brighton bike ride and raising over £1,000 for Marley's Wish

- Dan and Stacey Steward for organising Ted's Trek in honour of their baby boy Ted – a walk of approximately 14 miles. They raised over £4,600 for Teddy's Wish.

Charity Grants

We are immensely grateful to The National Lottery Community Fund and The Postcode Society Trust for supporting Teddy's Wish this year.

The National Lottery Community Fund

In August we were awarded with a grant of £19,972 from The National Lottery Community Fund for our Teddy's Wish Retreats. The generous award will fund our residential retreats for 2026 and 2027

The Postcode Society Trust

In October we were awarded a multi-year grant totalling £50,000 from The Postcode Lottery Trust. We received £20,000 in November 2025.

The Big Give Christmas Campaign

In December, we took part in the Big Give Christmas Campaign where donations for one week only are matched and doubled. This was the first year that Teddy's Wish took part and thanks to the incredible generosity of our matched funder and supporters, we raised £12,500. £2,500 was paid into our account in December with the remaining funds paid in early 2026.

Funding Research

Tommy's

Pre-Eclampsia Project

We have continued our partnership with Tommy's by jointly funding the continuation of the Pre-Eclampsia Study which we supported in 2024. Pre-eclampsia is a condition that causes high blood pressure (hypertension) in pregnant women and birthing people, as well as protein in the urine. Pre-eclampsia can be dangerous for both parent and baby and is the cause of around 1 in 8 stillbirths in the UK. It can only be cured completely by delivering the baby and the placenta, meaning that some babies are born prematurely, putting them at risk of both short-term complications and lifelong disability. Finding new treatments for pre-eclampsia is therefore vital to prevent pregnant women and birthing people from becoming seriously unwell.

Tommy's PhD student, Luisa Parnell, has been understanding what might be causing this difference between blood vessels in healthy pregnancies and those with pre-eclampsia. Luisa has used cutting edge techniques to show there is decreased calcium in the small muscles around the blood vessels in people with pre-eclampsia. This could be causing the narrower blood vessels and high blood pressure in these people.

In this new project, Luisa will focus on the reasons why less calcium is released in women and birthing people with pre-eclampsia, and whether specific drugs can help to increase calcium and lower blood pressure. If successful, this work could help develop the first new treatment for pre-eclampsia in a generation.

Teddy's Wish has contributed £25,000

Understanding Pregnancy Inequalities

We know that women and babies from minoritised ethnic backgrounds and those who live in more deprived areas are disproportionally affected by poor pregnancy outcomes.

Manchester has a diverse population, but the exact pregnancy outcomes for its population is unknown. So, our researchers are looking at differences in care and maternal and newborn health in those from different ethnic backgrounds and poorer areas in Manchester.

Research Assistant Yongyi Lu will use electronic patient records from central hospitals in Manchester to understand the local population and their interaction with health services during and after pregnancy. This will help identify those groups facing the greatest health inequalities and complex needs, and how to improve the care they receive.

Crucially, the team will share their methods with other hospitals, ensuring people across the UK can benefit from improved practices and equality of care too.

Teddy's Wish has contributed £25,000

Partnerships

We were delighted to collaborate with luxury home fragrance brand True Grace who created a special Wave of Light candle for Teddy's Wish during Baby Loss Awareness Week this year.

The refillable candle had the option of being personalised to honour and remember the babies who were taken too soon. The proceeds from sale of the candles were donated to Teddy's Wish in February 2026 to help us continue to support bereaved families.
