EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

We understand that recovery is not a linear journey. It requires compassion, specialist support and a safe environment where survivors can begin to rebuild their lives.

Throughout 2025, Support for Survivors continued to provide trauma-informed support to adults affected by sexual, physical and emotional abuse. Despite increasing demand and ongoing funding pressures, we remained committed to ensuring survivors received the care, advocacy and therapeutic support they needed.

Over the past year, we supported 171 survivors. Demand for our services continues to outpace capacity, with 80 individuals remaining on our waiting list due to limited funding. This highlights the growing need for specialist survivor services and the importance of sustained investment.

Every person who accesses our service is treated with dignity, respect and compassion. We remain committed to ensuring survivors feel heard, believed and empowered throughout their recovery journey.

WHO WE ARE

Our Mission

Support for Survivors is a specialist charity supporting adult survivors of childhood abuse. Since 2016, we have provided trauma-informed, peer-led support to adults affected by sexual abuse, physical abuse, emotional abuse, neglect, incest, rape, exploitation and trafficking, including veterans and serving personnel.

Our mission is to empower survivors to rebuild their lives by providing compassionate, survivor-led support that promotes healing, recovery and long-term wellbeing.

What We Do

We recognise that every survivor's journey is unique. Our services are tailored to individual needs and delivered in a safe, inclusive and non-judgemental environment. Our support includes:

- Trauma-informed emotional support and counselling
- Peer-led support groups and weekly drop-in sessions
- Mindfulness, wellbeing and personal development programmes
- Advocacy and practical support, including police, court and legal processes
- Welfare, housing and benefits advice
- Mental health, suicide prevention and crisis support
- Family and relationship support
- Referrals and signposting to specialist partner organisations

By working alongside survivors at their own pace, we help people build confidence, strengthen resilience and move towards a safer, healthier future.

FOUNDER'S MESSAGE

Every year I am reminded of one simple truth: survivors never cease to amaze me.

Behind every referral is a person who has lived with the lifelong impact of abuse, often carrying those experiences in silence for many years. It is a privilege that survivors continue to place their trust in Support for Survivors at some of the most difficult moments in their lives.

Although financial pressures have continued to affect the charity, they have never diminished our commitment to survivors. Our team, volunteers and trustees have worked tirelessly and will continue to advocate for survivors, strengthen our services and expand access to support wherever we can.

2025 was also an important year of learning and professional development for me. I continued to develop my knowledge and expertise in areas closely connected to our work, including child sexual abuse, trauma-informed approaches to rape and sexual violence, grief and bereavement, mental health and mindfulness. I undertook a number of professional development programmes and training opportunities during the year, which have since been completed in 2026.

This continued learning strengthens not only my own practice, but also our organisation’s ability to develop and deliver informed, compassionate and survivor-led support. I am particularly committed to sharing this knowledge through training and professional development, helping other professionals and organisations better understand and respond to the needs of survivors.

FOUNDER'S MESSAGE

This year has also been one of learning and collaboration. Through partnerships with organisations including Gedling Borough Council, The Survivors Trust, Nottingham Trent University and the Centre of Expertise on Child Sexual Abuse, we have continued to strengthen our practice, contribute to safeguarding discussions and ensure our services reflect current evidence and best practice.

What continues to inspire me most is witnessing the resilience of survivors. Time and again, I see individuals arrive feeling isolated, frightened and without hope, only to grow in confidence, rebuild relationships, volunteer alongside us and support others beginning their own recovery journey. Those moments remind us why this work matters.

I would like to thank our dedicated staff, volunteers, trustees, funders and partner organisations for their continued belief in our mission. Most importantly, I want to thank every survivor who has trusted us with their story. Your courage continues to shape our organisation and inspire everything we do.

While challenges remain, we look to the future with determination. We will continue to advocate for survivors, strengthen our services and ensure that everyone who seeks support is met with compassion, respect and hope.

Maxi 'Leigh FOUNDER / MANAGING DIRECTOR

CHAIR'S MESSAGE

2025 has been a successful year for Support for Survivors, and we're entering 2026 on a strong and sustainable foundation. Our team have maintained a modest growth in the number of survivors we've supported and continue to take every opportunity to provide critical services to those who need our help, despite a challenging climate for charity-based community services.

Alongside our core work in supporting survivors, the management team have delivered significant transformation for the charity, including achieving accreditation against The Survivors Trust's UKAS-accredited National Service Standards and strengthening the charity's governance framework. Additionally, our expertise has been recognised nationally through our contribution to policy and practice via The Survivors Trust CEO Focus Group, and the appointment of our Managing Director as one of only twenty professionals selected to join the Centre of Expertise on Childhood Sexual Abuse Practice Leads Programme.

The growth in our strategic partnerships with local authorities and academic institutions will support us to continue developing our best practice and securing the vital funding we need to support every survivor who needs our services. After recovering to achieve long-term financial sustainability in 2025, we remain determined to advocate for our survivors and to ensure we can keep our team resourced to meet growing demand.

CHAIR'S MESSAGE

I share Maxi's gratitude to our survivors and everyone who enables Support for Survivors to thrive. I would like to extend my personal thanks to Maxi 'Leigh for her passion and optimism in leading the team, to Joseph Curtis for his extensive work to strengthen our governance, to our Trustees for exercising sound judgement with compassion and to Chris Gibbon for her invaluable support during my transition to Chair in April and in her ongoing role as our Secretary. Every day I spend with our team, I see them living the values which guide our work: compassion, dignity and respect, lived experience, empowerment, collaboration and excellence. It is an honour to work with our survivors, volunteers, partners and funders, and I look forward to continued advocacy and delivery on our mission to empower survivors to rebuild their lives in 2026.

We work in partnership with communities and organisations to improve outcomes for survivors.

Excellence

We are committed to delivering high-quality, evidence-informed and trauma-informed support.

REFERRALS & DEMAND

Demand for our services remained high throughout 2025, reflecting the continued need for specialist trauma-informed support for adult survivors of childhood abuse.

During the year, we received 88 new referrals (17 male and 71 female survivors). Despite supporting more people than ever before, 80 individuals remained on our waiting list, highlighting the impact of limited funding on our ability to meet demand.

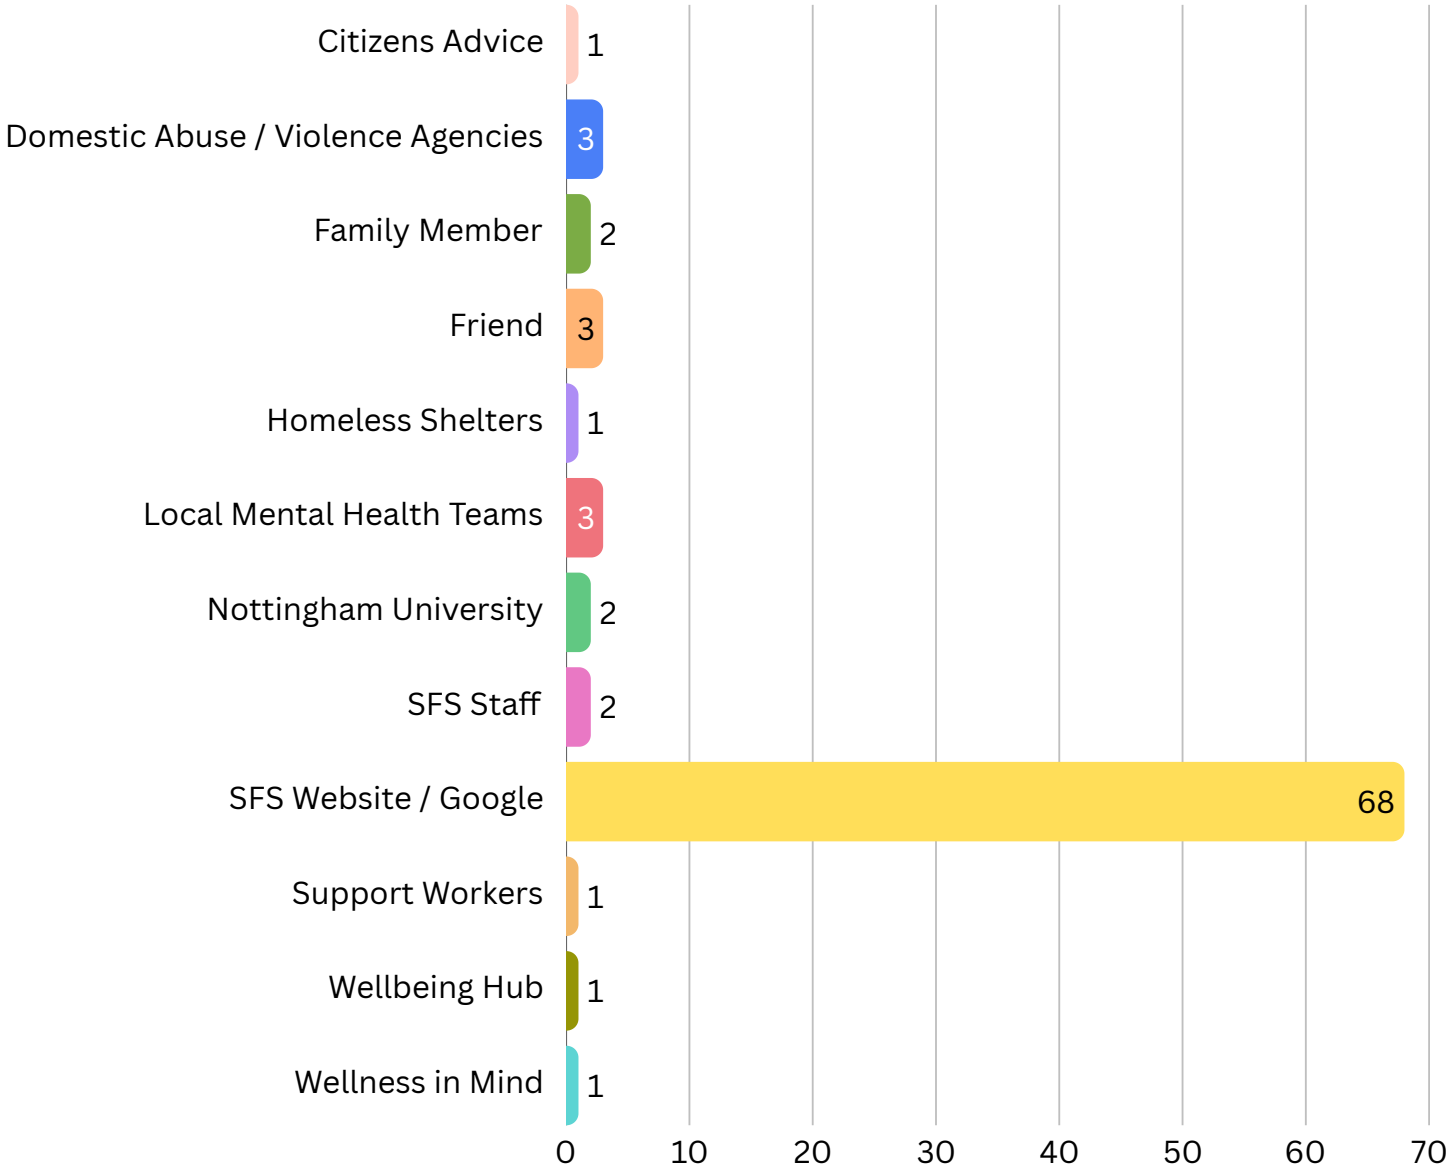

Referrals continued to come from a wide range of NHS services, statutory agencies, community organisations and self-referrals, demonstrating growing awareness of Support for Survivors across Nottinghamshire and the East Midlands.

Changes in Demand

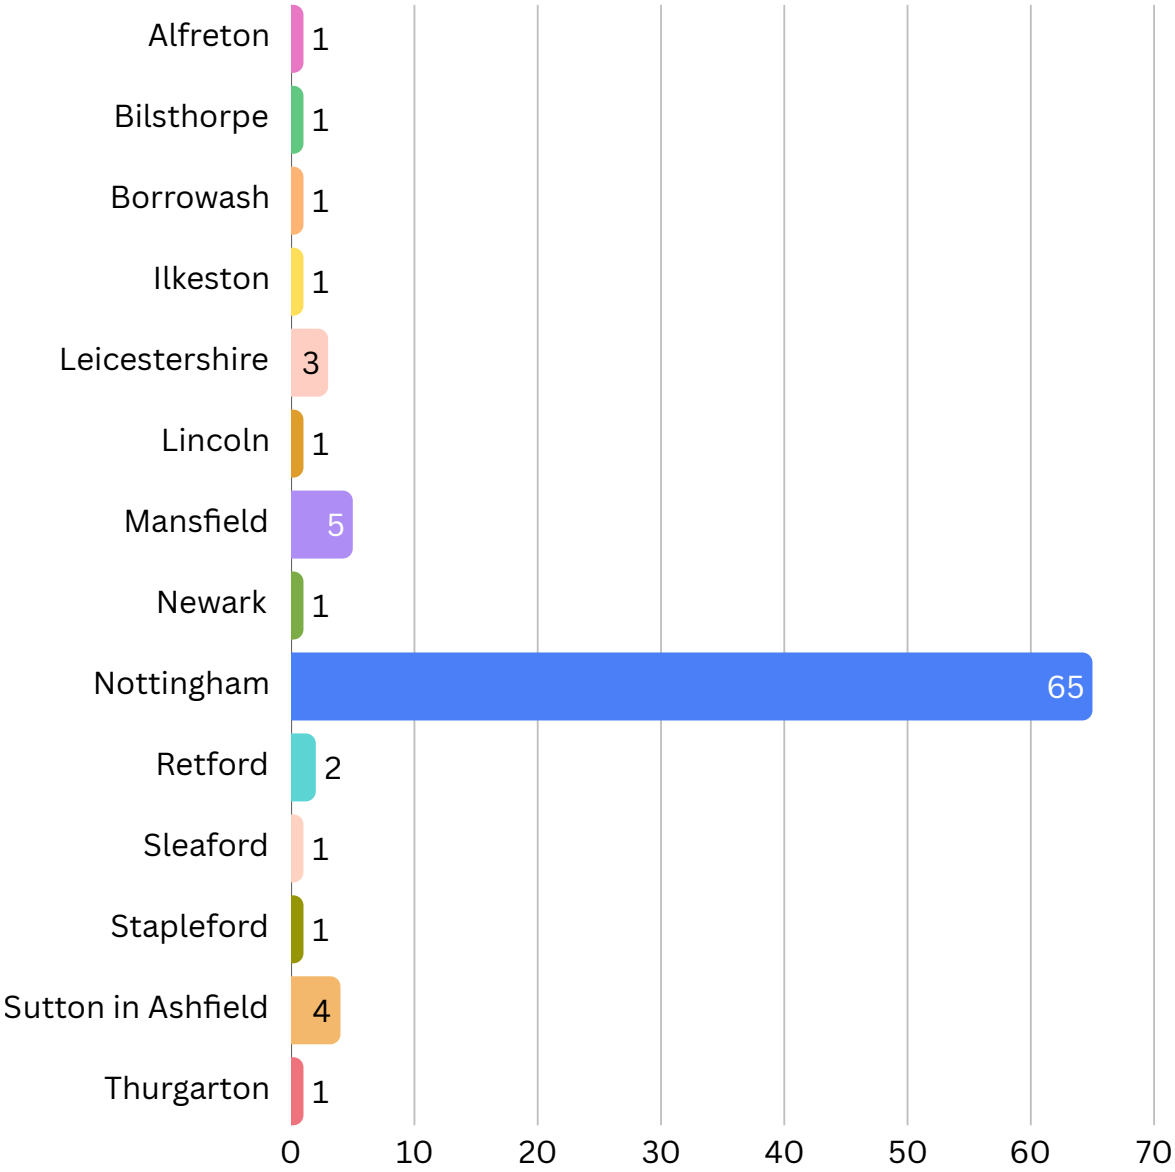

Compared with 2024, the number of recorded referrals increased from 75 to 88, a rise of approximately 17%. The 2025 data provides a more detailed picture of how survivors find our services, with the SFS website and Google recorded as the source for 68 referrals. Nottingham remained the main referral location, accounting for 65 referrals, while others came from surrounding towns and further afield. The ethnicity profile remained broadly similar, with White British referrals representing the largest recorded group in 2025, as White Caucasian referrals did in 2024. As some categories and recording methods differed between the two years, these comparisons should be interpreted as indicative rather than directly equivalent.

During 2025, we received referrals and enquiries from locations including Maidstone, Tunbridge Wells, Crewe, London, Greater London and Essex.

Where we are unable to provide direct support, we work closely with trusted partners, including The Survivors Trust, to ensure survivors are connected with appropriate specialist services closer to home.

The continued demand from outside our region highlights both the growing need for specialist trauma-informed services and the growing recognition of Support for Survivors beyond the East Midlands.

STORIES OF IMPACT

1. FINDING A SAFE PLACE TO RETURN TO

Background

After living with the effects of their experiences for many years, one survivor came to Support for Survivors looking for a safe and understanding environment where they could access support.

Their experience

The survivor described their experience with Support for Survivors as "life changing", highlighting the importance of knowing that the group remains available should they need support again.

Although attending drop-in sessions can sometimes feel difficult, they valued knowing they could return when they felt ready. The continued availability of the group provided reassurance that support was there when needed.

Impact

For this survivor, the value of Support for Survivors extends beyond individual sessions. Having a safe space they can return to, alongside the reassurance that support remains available, has become an important part of their ongoing recovery.

"It was life changing for me and it gives me peace of mind that the group is still there if I ever need to access help again."

STORIES OF IMPACT

2. FROM ISOLATION TO CONNECTION

Background

After numerous attempts to find appropriate support, one survivor was struggling with issues they described as largely stemming from their experience of sexual abuse.

Finding Support

They eventually found Support for Survivors and discovered a support group run solely by survivors. For them, this created something different from previous experiences: a space where they felt others could genuinely understand the effects of sexual abuse.

They described the group as unique and approachable, and spoke about feeling supported and less alone.

Impact

Since joining Support for Survivors, the survivor felt they had come a long way in terms of their wellbeing, while recognising that recovery remains an ongoing process. Knowing they can pick up the phone and speak to someone when they need support has provided additional reassurance.

They described Support for Survivors as “a lifeline”, highlighting the importance of having somewhere to turn when things become difficult.

“This group is run by solely survivors… I feel I have come a long way regarding my wellbeing.”

Names and identifying details have been omitted or changed to protect the privacy of survivors. Case studies are based on feedback provided to Support for Survivors.

OUR VOLUNTEERS

Volunteers are at the heart of Support for Survivors. Their dedication, compassion and commitment play a vital role in helping survivors rebuild their lives.

In 2025, nine volunteers supported the charity, including two new volunteers who joined our team. Across the year, 2,586 hours were contributed through volunteering and trustee support, helping us maintain and deliver our services.

Our volunteers supported the charity through telephone befriending, peer support, mentoring, bereavement support, personal development programmes and community activities. We also provided 5,657 minutes of telephone support throughout the year, helping survivors stay connected and access support when they needed it.

Many of our volunteers draw on their own lived experience of recovery, offering empathy, hope and understanding to those accessing our services. Their experiences enable them to build genuine connections with survivors and demonstrate that healing is possible.

Our volunteers give far more than their time. They create safe spaces, reduce isolation and inspire confidence in others. Their commitment is a powerful reflection of the survivor-led ethos at the heart of Support for Survivors.

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

One of our newest volunteers first came to Support for Survivors seeking help after experiencing childhood sexual abuse, rape, exploitation and addiction. Through consistent support, she rebuilt her confidence, self-worth and relationships. Today, she volunteers alongside our team, using her lived experience to support others beginning their own recovery journey. Her transformation is a powerful reminder that healing is possible and that survivors can go on to inspire hope in others.

Supporting our Volunteers

We are equally committed to supporting our volunteers. During 2025, we introduced regular supervision, reflective practice and peer support sessions to safeguard their wellbeing, recognising the emotional impact that supporting survivors can have. By investing in our volunteers, we strengthen the quality and sustainability of the support we provide.

TRUSTEE GOVERNANCE

Structure of Governance and Management

Support for Survivors CIO is governed by its constitution, originally dated 26 September 2015, and registered with the Charity Commission on 10 March 2016.

The charity is managed by a Board of Trustees, comprising between three and twelve trustees. New trustees are appointed by resolution of the existing trustees in accordance with the constitution. The Board meets quarterly to oversee strategy, finances, safeguarding, risk and regulatory compliance.

Trustees serve voluntarily, and the charity maintains policies covering safeguarding, financial controls and conflicts of interest, alongside a register of trustee interests. No trustee received remuneration during 2025, except reimbursement of legitimate expenses.

Public Benefit

During 2025, the charity supported 171 survivors through trauma-informed support, counselling, peer groups, wellbeing programmes, advocacy and practical assistance. These services aim to reduce distress, promote recovery and empower survivors to rebuild their lives.

The Trustees confirm that they have had due regard to the Charity Commission's public benefit guidance when making relevant decisions about the charity's activities.

RISK & SAFEGUARDING

Risk Management

The Trustees have considered the major risks to which the charity is exposed, including safeguarding, funding sustainability, beneficiary vulnerabilities, and volunteer wellbeing. Systems and policies have been established to mitigate these risks, including staff training, regular financial oversight, and an active safeguarding policy. The Trustees are satisfied that appropriate measures are in place to manage these risks effectively.

Safeguarding and Operational Policies

Safeguarding is central to all aspects of the charity's work. Support for Survivors CIO operates in line with statutory safeguarding guidance and has a Safeguarding Policy, DBS Policy and Code of Conduct. All staff and volunteers receive regular training on safeguarding, domestic abuse, operations and service user safety. Concerns are reported and managed in accordance with these policies.

POLICY & LEGISLATIVE UPDATES SINCE THIS REPORTING YEAR

Since the publication of the Government's Tackling Child Sexual Abuse: Progress Update in April 2025, important legislative progress has been made towards implementing several recommendations of the Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse (IICSA). The Crime and Policing Act 2026 legislates for mandatory reporting of suspected child sexual abuse, alongside measures including stronger DBS safeguards and reforms to civil claims.

However, significant recommendations remain outstanding. In particular, the Government has confirmed that it is not currently proceeding with IICSA's recommendation for a national redress scheme, leaving many survivors without the comprehensive system of recognition and compensation envisaged by Professor Alexis Jay.

Alongside these reforms, the Government formally established the Independent Inquiry into Grooming Gangs in April 2026, following Baroness Casey's National Audit into Group-Based Child Sexual Exploitation and Abuse.

Support for Survivors continues to advocate for the full implementation of all IICSA recommendations and for meaningful, survivor-informed reform that strengthens child protection, improves accountability, and ensures every victim and survivor can access justice, recognition and appropriate support.

FINANCIAL COMPLIANCE

Statement of Financial Responsibilities and Compliance

The financial statements of Support for Survivors CIO have been prepared in accordance with the charity's Core Business Financial Management Policy (G02) and comply with the requirements of the Charities Act 2011 and the Charity Commission's guidance for Charitable Incorporated Organisations (CC15d).

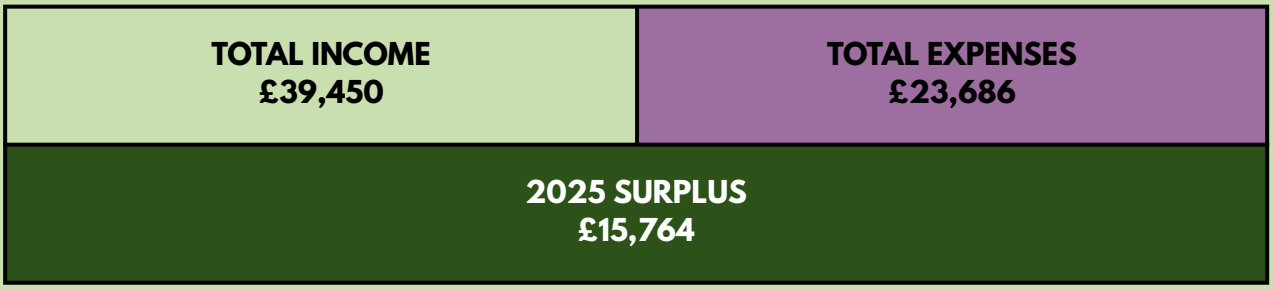

As the charity’s gross income for the financial year was below £250,000, the financial statements have been prepared on a receipts and payments basis in accordance with Charity Commission requirements.

FINANCIAL OVERVIEW

Despite increasing demand for our services, careful financial stewardship enabled us to continue delivering specialist, trauma-informed support throughout 2025.

Maintaining healthy reserves ensures the long-term sustainability of the charity, providing financial resilience during periods of funding uncertainty and helping ensure survivors can continue accessing support when they need it most.

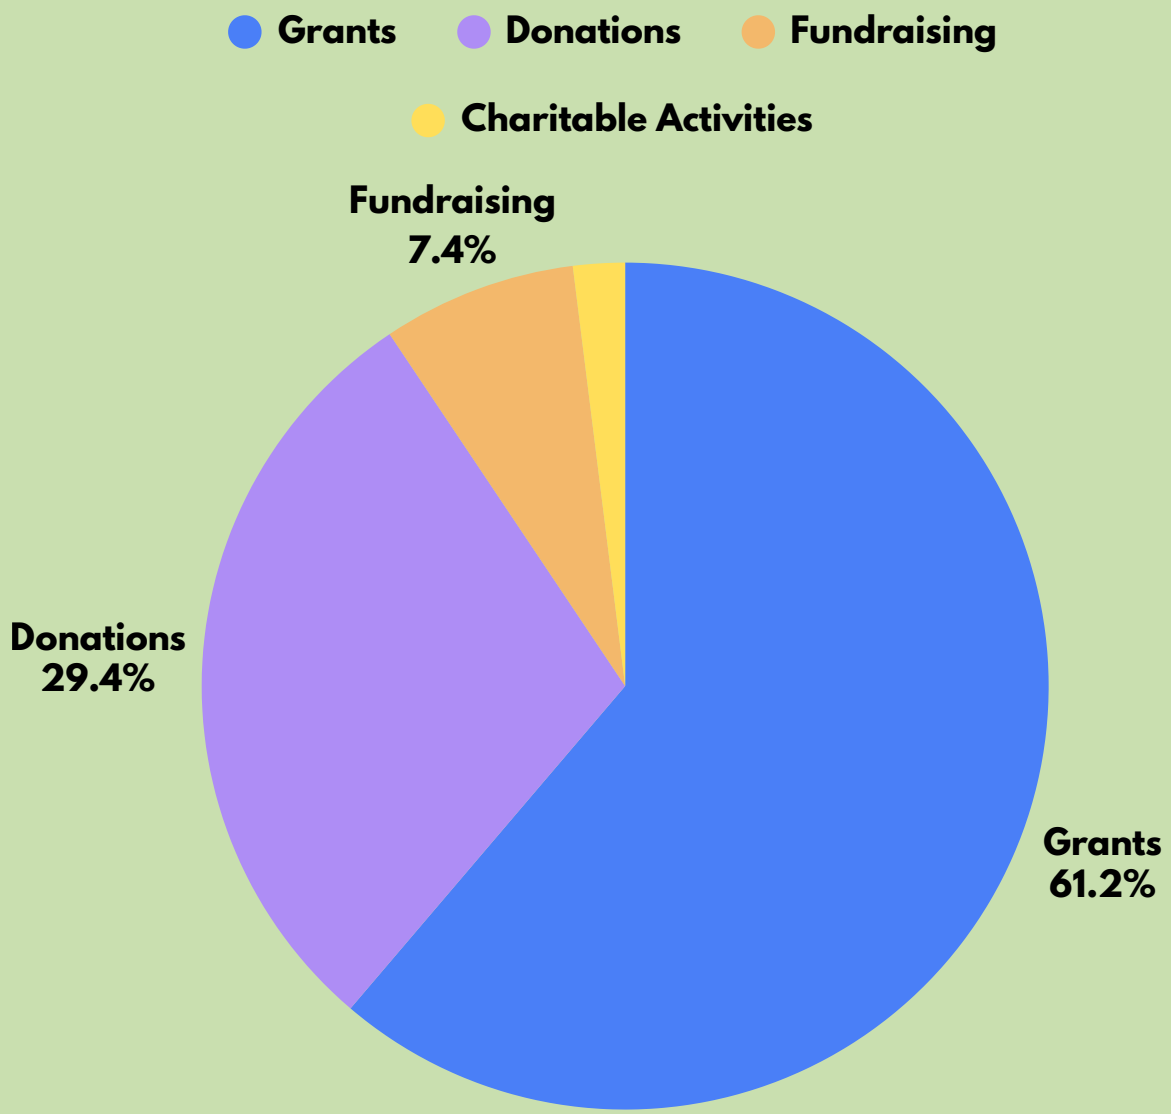

Following a challenging 2024, when reserves stood at £370, the charity ended 2025 in a stronger financial position through fundraising, grant income and careful financial management.

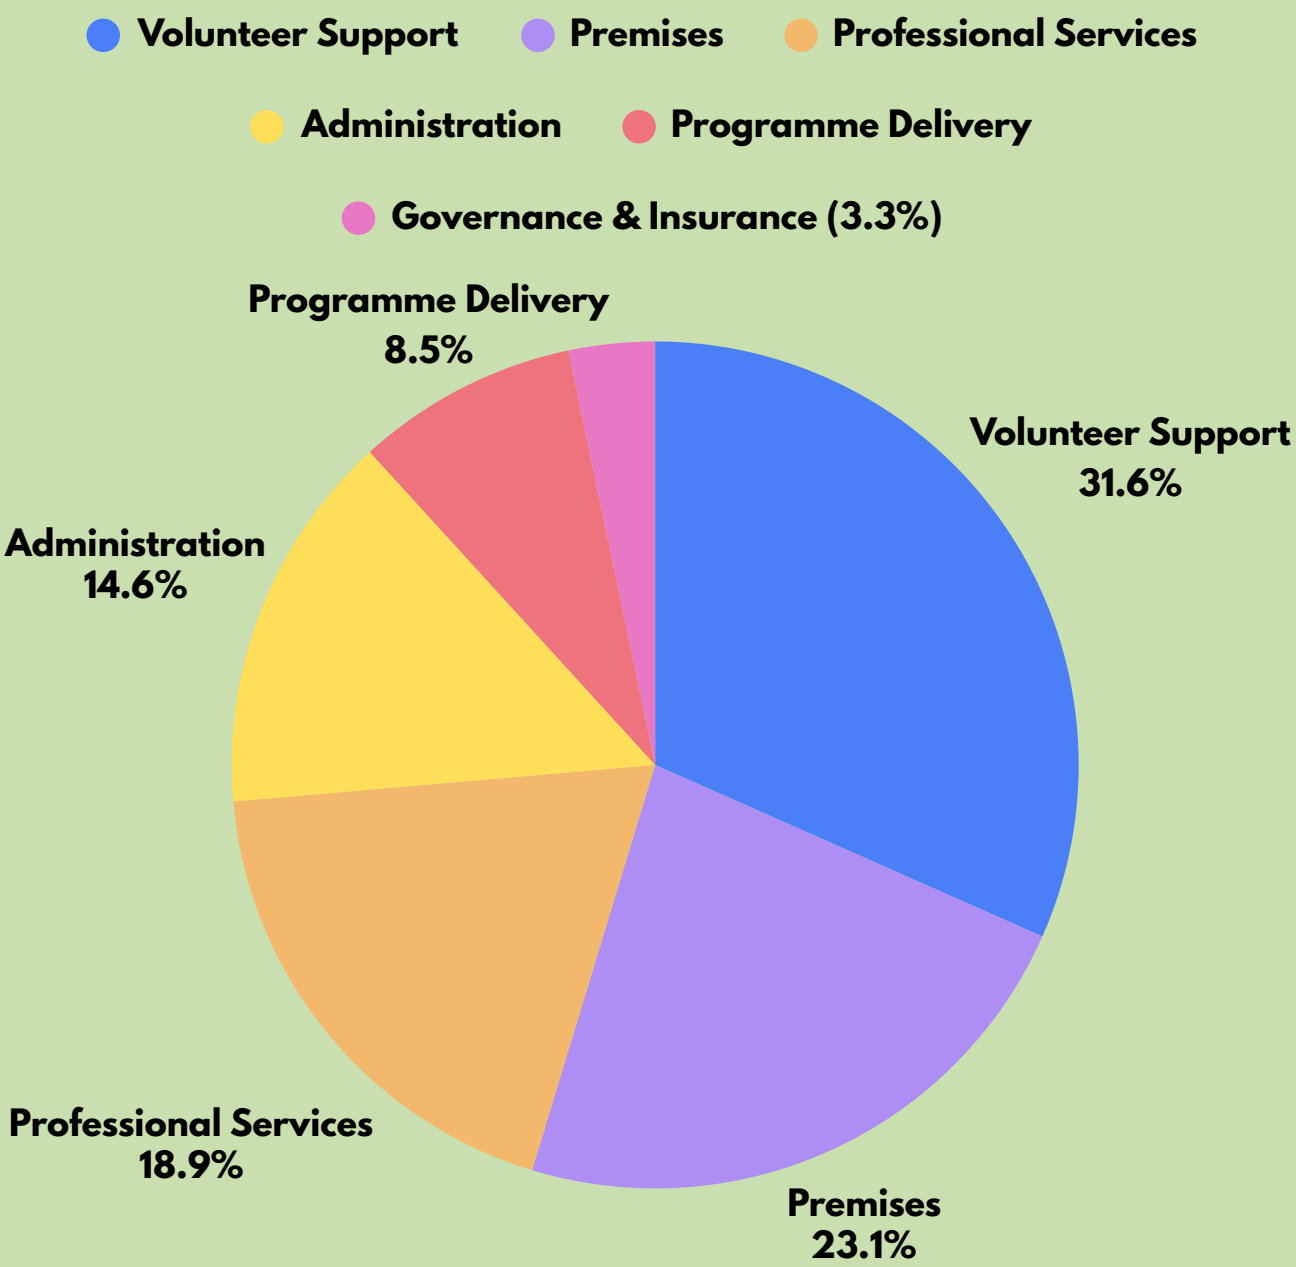

Reserves Policy

The charity aims to maintain unrestricted reserves equivalent to six months of operating costs. The Trustees review reserves annually to manage financial risks, protect essential services and provide stability during funding delays or unexpected costs. STRATEGIC FOCUS (2026)

Financial Recovery & Sustainability

We will continue exploring new approaches to strengthen the charity's financial sustainability and reduce reliance on grant funding. This includes considering ways in which service users who are able to do so could make a voluntary contribution towards the support they receive, helping us sustain services while maintaining accessibility for those who cannot contribute.

Professional Training & Development

We plan to develop a training programme for professionals working with children and young people affected by abuse, including teachers and education professionals. The programme will aim to strengthen understanding of trauma, improve confidence in responding to disclosures and promote more informed, compassionate support.

Expanding Therapeutic Support

To help reduce waiting times and reach more survivors, we are exploring the expansion of group therapeutic sessions alongside our existing one-to-one support. Sessions will be offered both online and in person, creating additional opportunities for survivors to access therapeutic support while making better use of available capacity.

THANK YOU

None of this work would be possible without the continued support of the people and organisations who believe in our work and the survivors we support.

We would like to thank all of our funders and grant-giving organisations for accepting our applications and investing in our services. We are especially grateful to Gedling Borough Councillors, the Mayor and UNISON for their generous financial support, including funding towards our core costs and volunteering, which helps us continue providing vital support to vulnerable communities.

A special thank you to The Moon and Stars public house, its landlords and staff, for hosting two fundraising events in support of Support for Survivors and helping us raise both funds and awareness.

We are also incredibly grateful to Boots for their generous donation of beauty products, and to The Hygiene Bank, through its partnership with Boots, for its substantial donation of hygiene products for our service users.

Thank you to Nottingham Forest for donating 20 football match tickets, giving our service users the opportunity to enjoy a positive experience together.

THANK YOU

We also thank our volunteers, trustees and partner organisations for the time, expertise and commitment they give throughout the year.

Most importantly, we thank every survivor who places their trust in us. Your courage, resilience and continued involvement shape everything we do.
