Passion For Freedom

Trustees' Report
For The Year Ended 31 December 2025

The trustees present their report with the financial statements of the charity for the year ended 31 December 2025. The trustees have adopted the provisions of Accounting and Reporting by Charities: Statement of Recommended Practice applicable to charities preparing their accounts in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland (FRS 102) (effective 1 January 2019).

OBJECTIVES AND ACTIVITIES

Objectives and aims

Who we are

Passion for Freedom is a story of a small group of friends, mostly ladies with a shared dream. Founded in 2009, Passion for Freedom began as a tight-knit sisterhood dedicated to their shared values of free expression, and the power of art to inspire, awaken and shake the world. For an average individual, dipping your toes into a world of censorship, religious terrorism, and oppressed journalists takes real commitment to the cause. Our women fought these things for over a decade, all the while unpaid, juggling careers, relationships, terrorist attacks, and Monday morning's Central Line.

In today's world, Passion for Freedom stands out. There are far too many cowards, bullies, virtue signallers and censors in the world today. When faced with real evil, most people look away or bury their heads in the sand, but we are proud to say that PFF never wavered, despite its adversarial existence.

The real spectacle and focus have always been the yearly art exhibition, where artists facing censorship world-over send in submissions to the Passion for Freedom Art Competition. Creators like Mimsy, Ai Wei Wei, Atena Farghadani, Malala, Kubra Khademi, and countless others have been involved with the competition over the years, and their brilliance is, for lack of a better term, the main show. PFF is merely the stage.

Mission Statement

Passion for Freedom promotes human rights and freedom of expression through the arts and provides support to victims of human rights abuses. Passion for Freedom pursues its mission through diverse activities including art exhibitions, seminars and workshops, as well as educational, welfare and support programs.

What we do

Passion for Freedom organises an annual international art competition and exhibition on human rights and freedom of speech. This platform facilitates open, uninhibited and critical discussion and debate about the value of freedom and the risks to humanity of losing freedom. Through exhibitions, seminars and workshops, Passion for Freedom creates spaces for artists, writers, and the public to explore subjects and themes often omitted from mainstream discourse on human rights and individual freedoms.

Passion for Freedom's current major activity is the biennial international art competition and exhibition.

Significant activities

1) To promote human rights (as set out in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and subsequent United Nations and European conventions and declarations) throughout the world through the arts and works of art with a view to: raise awareness of human rights issues; promote public support for human rights; and promote respect for human rights among individuals and corporations.

2) To relieve poverty or financial hardship among victims of human rights abuses and other socially excluded groups throughout the world by providing grants, items, services, education, training and advice to individuals, and/or charities, or other organisations working to prevent or relieve poverty.

3) To promote the advancement of health for public benefit, especially for victims of human rights abuses.

ACHIEVEMENTS AND PERFORMANCE

Achievements and Performance

Passion for Freedom organises an annual international art competition and exhibition on human rights and freedom of speech. This platform facilitates open, critical discussion about the value of freedom and the risk of losing it. Through exhibitions, seminars and workshops, Passion for Freedom creates space for artists, writers, and the public to explore subjects and themes often omitted from the mainstream art discourse.

In 2025 we continued our support to connect artists and art professionals within Europe and beyond (USA, South America, Asia). We connected a British artist with the Gallery S7 in Warsaw. The artist took part in a group exhibition at the Gallery S7 that year.

In 2025, we explored staging an exhibition in Copenhagen to mark the 10th anniversary of the Copenhagen terror attack. We decided not to proceed with the exhibition as the gallery hire was beyond our current budget. We continued to search for sponsors and small donors to build a bigger budget toward the next festival edition. In order to remain active in promoting artists we are looking to hire a part-time online creator to create content for PFF's social media.

PFF continued its activity by attending conferences, giving interviews, taking part in podcasts and panel discussions and connecting with artists and cultural figures.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

Financial position

The Charity is funded by donations. There are currently no restrictions on the Charity's power to invest. The Trustees consider the income requirement of the organisation against the income prospects.

The Charity's reserves policy is that general (unrestricted) reserves should be maintained to cover the operating cost for a period of time to continue activities in the event of significant decline (or withdrawal) or funding.

FUTURE PLANS

PFF will continue its statutory activities, secure more partnerships and work towards achieving its charitable objectives. In the upcoming year, we are focusing on:

Building a budget and searching for a partner gallery to stage the next Passion for Freedom Art Festival. We are considering these locations: Brussels, Prague, Warsaw, London.

- securing a major sponsor and gallery partnership will allow us to open the new edition of the competition
- once the competition starts it will allow artists from all over the world to express their views on freedom through their chosen media of painting, photography, sculpture, performance and film. Shortlisted artworks will be exhibited in the secured gallery in one of the 4 cities that we are focused on.
- organisation of the event, including volunteer management, award ceremony, storage, travel & accommodation arrangements.
- merchandising, fundraising, networking, promotion.

Through the coming months PFF is planning to focus on promotion of artists on its social media platforms.

STRUCTURE, GOVERNANCE AND MANAGEMENT

Structure, governance and management

Passion for Freedom (PFF) is a UK charity registered with the Charity Commission for England and Wales (Charity number is: 1171186). Three Trustees who have served during the year and since the year-end are set out on the page above. The Trustees are appointed by Charity's members.

PFF is a non-governmental, voluntary-based organisation that promotes human rights and freedom of expression through art. PFF was started in London in 2009 by a small group of friends, mainly women, and is today supported by a vast international network of artists, activists, journalists and professionals. Every time before the exhibition and art competition, we ask contributing artists, film producers, writers and journalists three pivotal questions:

1. What is freedom?
2. How do you preserve it?
3. How do you celebrate it?
