Public Benefit

Nurture Through Nature aims to relieve poverty by donating fresh produce grown on our allotment plots with volunteers to local food banks and community kitchens.

Our work: Harvest

We grow a wide range of popular vegetables. We have increased the number of fruit trees we tend as fruit is a very popular addition to our donations. Here is a sample of our harvest figures.

Weight in Kg	Produce
85.6	potatoes
153.3	onions
44.5	carrots
36.28	chard & kale
97.6	apples

Our work: Composting

We continued our large scale composting of plant matter and food waste from FareShare. As part of the Brighton and Hove Food Partnership we received funding to have built for us three giant maturation bins that take the part composted food waste from the Ridan composter so that it can fully compost. Many thanks to Tims' Bins who built the bins in situ. Composting food waste has a double benefit as we are able to use the compost to enrich our soil and improve our crops and the waste does not have to be transported long distances to be disposed of.

Our partnership with Fareshare also means they take our produce to a wider range of community groups. This year we donated to the following local organisations:

The Crew Club Whitehawk	Coldean Community Centre	Moulsecoomb Community Market	Brightstore, Whitehawk
Bevendean Foodbank	The Real Junk Food Project	Lunch Positive	The Bevy

Volunteers

We continue to work with a dedicated and diverse range of volunteers. Volunteers find us through volunteer listings from Brighton and Hove Community Works and Brighton and Hove Community Base but we are pleased to note almost as many come to us through word of mouth. We also host students from the University of Brighton who have a 30 hour community volunteering component in their course requirements.

We have been trialling new ways to collect feedback from volunteers. To get away from online questionnaires we placed a blackboard in our shed and offered sweets as a reward for comments - even critical ones.

When the weather was suitable, we offered 10 weekend volunteering sessions for volunteers who work or have other commitments in the week. These proved very popular and we will continue to offer these when feasible.

We are aware that our volunteers may be under financial pressure as much as food bank users, so we have made efforts to encourage anyone who needs it to claim their travel costs. Claiming is simple and straight forward and a reminder to claim is on every communication volunteers receive.

Funding

We are grateful to our funders who provided us with the means to carry out our work:
