Trustees Report

The first half of the year was characterised by a pause in the security situation in Lebanon which for the time being is the Trust's sole focus within the context of its mission related to assisting children from disadvantaged communities to remain in education. This enabled work on a long standing project to create a centre to treat children with severe learning difficulties, to which the children in the three schools the Trust has sponsored have access, to be completed. The centre accommodates up to 200 children, is administered by our partner the Archdiocese of Antelias who in turn entrusts its day to day management to an order of Catholic nuns. Given the unstable and expensive cost of electricity in Beirut, the Trust's grant financed a solar powered electricity installation to ensure that the centre was totally self sufficient in electricity. This has resulted not only in children with learning difficulties being able to be treated in a safe environment but also in a significant additional contribution in lowering the running costs of the centre.
