TRUSTEES' ANNUAL REPORT 2025

Wisdom in Flow International (WIFI)

Financial period start date: 1 January 2025
Financial period end date: 31 December 2025

Objectives and Activities

Wisdom in Flow International exists to advance spiritual development, personal empowerment and community wellbeing for the public benefit. The charity seeks to support individuals in developing greater spiritual awareness, recognising and expressing their innate potential, and applying spiritual principles to everyday life.

During 2025, the charity continued to pursue these objectives through regular spiritual empowerment services, meditation and reflective practices, spiritual education, conferences, workshops and community engagement.

The charity continued to make significant use of virtual delivery. This has enabled people beyond the charity's immediate geographical community to participate in its activities and has supported an increasingly diverse community of participants in the United Kingdom and internationally. Virtual delivery is complemented by in-person activities where appropriate.

During the year, the organisation continued the development of its identity as Wisdom in Flow International (WIFI), reflecting its emphasis on spiritual awakening, divine identity, conscious living, personal transformation and the practical application of spiritual principles.

In planning and reviewing the charity's activities, the trustees have had regard to the Charity Commission's guidance on public benefit.

Activities and Achievements

Throughout 2025, the charity maintained its regular programme of Sunday spiritual empowerment services. These gatherings provided structured spiritual teaching, reflection, meditation, prayer and fellowship, with the aim of helping participants develop greater awareness of their spiritual identity and apply spiritual principles constructively within their everyday lives.

The charity's virtual approach continued to enable participation from individuals who may otherwise have been unable to attend because of geographical distance or other circumstances. Online and social media engagement also supported access to teachings and reflective content outside scheduled gatherings.

Meditation and contemplative practice remained an important part of the charity's activities. Regular opportunities for meditation, introspection and prayer encouraged participants to develop greater self-awareness, inner stillness, spiritual alignment and conscious responses to personal and wider societal circumstances.

Divine Code 2025

A major programme activity during the year was the charity's annual conference, Divine Code 2025: The Reclamation of the Self, From Shock to Sovereignty.

The conference was delivered over three days and provided a concentrated programme of spiritual education, reflection and experiential learning. It explored spiritual identity, the development of consciousness, peace, self-awareness and the movement from conditioned understandings of self towards greater spiritual awareness and personal responsibility.

Brother Dr Ishmael Tetteh served as the principal guest speaker, with the conference hosted by Mystic Sam, Yaw Oppong-Druyeh.

The conference provided participants with opportunities to engage more deeply with subjects addressed through the charity's regular programme and strengthened the charity's annual provision of more intensive spiritual education and personal development.

Digital and Community Engagement

The charity continued to use digital platforms and social media throughout the year to make its activities more accessible and to maintain engagement with participants beyond its immediate local community.

This approach has enabled WIFI to maintain connections with participants in different geographical locations while providing opportunities for continued learning and engagement between scheduled services and events.

The trustees consider the combination of regular virtual provision, digital resources and appropriate in-person engagement to be an effective and proportionate means of pursuing the charity's objectives within its available resources.

Public Benefit and Impact

The trustees consider that the charity provided public benefit during the year through accessible spiritual education, meditation and reflective practice, opportunities for personal development and activities that encourage community connection and wellbeing.

During 2025, the charity maintained regular spiritual and reflective provision throughout the year, continued to provide opportunities for participation through virtual delivery, delivered its annual three-day spiritual development conference and continued to expand the availability of spiritual and educational content through digital platforms.

Participants were provided with opportunities to explore spiritual identity, personal responsibility, self-awareness, meditation and the practical application of spiritual principles. The charity's activities also provided an ongoing community in which individuals could participate in shared learning, reflection and fellowship.

The charity continues to operate on a relatively small scale and relies significantly upon voluntary participation. The trustees recognise the importance of improving the systematic collection of information relating to attendance, digital reach, participant feedback and outcomes. Developing this evidence base will help the charity to assess its effectiveness, improve future activities and demonstrate its public benefit more clearly to members, potential funders and other stakeholders.

Volunteers

The charity continued to benefit substantially from the contribution of volunteers during 2025.

Volunteers supported the organisation and delivery of services, spiritual programmes, administration, communications, digital activities and events. This voluntary contribution has enabled the charity to maintain its programme while keeping administrative and operational expenditure proportionate to its limited financial resources.

The trustees express their appreciation to all volunteers, members, speakers and supporters who contributed their time, skills and experience during the year.

Financial Review

During the financial year ended 31 December 2025, the charity received gross income of £575 and incurred total expenditure of £539, resulting in a surplus of £36 for the year.

The charity continued to operate on a modest financial base, with its activities principally supported through voluntary contributions. The trustees maintained careful oversight of expenditure and sought to ensure that available funds were used appropriately in furtherance of the charity's objectives.

Income

The charity's principal source of income during the year was voluntary donations and contributions from members and supporters.

Total income for the year was £575.

The trustees remain grateful for the continued generosity of members and supporters. Their contributions have enabled the charity to maintain its regular activities and provide spiritual and educational opportunities while keeping participation as accessible as reasonably possible.

The charity did not receive material income from investments or contracts during the reporting period.

Expenditure

Total expenditure for the year was £539.

Expenditure was allocated as follows:

Programme delivery: £380

This expenditure supported the delivery of the charity's spiritual and educational activities, including virtual spiritual empowerment sessions, digital platforms, conference and programme-related costs, and content used in delivering the charity's charitable activities.

Administrative and communication expenses: £114

These costs related to the routine administration of the charity, including communication tools, digital services and other operational expenses necessary to support its activities.

Miscellaneous and incidental expenses: £45

This expenditure covered minor incidental and contingency costs arising during the normal operation of the charity.

Total expenditure: £539

The trustees consider the level of expenditure to be proportionate to the charity's income and scale of operations. Approximately 70 per cent of total expenditure was directly attributable to programme delivery, with the remainder supporting the administration and infrastructure required to deliver those activities.

Financial Result

The charity recorded a surplus of £36 for the year.

The trustees consider this to represent a modest but positive operating result. Expenditure was maintained within available income while the charity continued to deliver its principal activities.

The charity nevertheless remains dependent upon voluntary contributions and has limited capacity to absorb significant unexpected expenditure or expand its activities substantially without additional income. Strengthening financial resilience and diversifying income therefore remain priorities for future development.

Reserves Policy

The charity's reserves remain modest, reflecting its relatively low level of annual income and expenditure.

The trustees recognise the importance of maintaining an appropriate level of unrestricted reserves to support continuity of activities and provide some protection against unforeseen expenditure or fluctuations in voluntary income.

Given the charity's present scale and limited fixed financial commitments, the trustees consider the current approach proportionate. The level and purpose of reserves will continue to be reviewed as the charity's activities, commitments and income develop.

Funds not required for immediate expenditure are held securely. The charity does not currently maintain an investment portfolio.

Structure, Governance and Management

The activities of Wisdom in Flow International are overseen by the trustees in accordance with the charity's governing arrangements and internal governance procedures.

The trustees retain overall responsibility for the governance and strategic direction of the charity, the proper application of charitable funds, compliance with relevant requirements and ensuring that the organisation continues to operate in furtherance of its charitable purposes.

Members in good standing are able to contribute to the wider life and work of the organisation.

The Pastoral Board supports the routine administration and delivery of the charity's activities. It comprises the Head and Associate Pastors, Secretary and departmental representatives nominated through the organisation's governance arrangements and endorsed by the trustees.

The Pastoral Board normally meets every two months to consider programme delivery, administration, organisational matters and future activities.

Trustees are responsible for ensuring that decisions are made in the best interests of the charity. Actual or potential conflicts of interest are expected to be declared and managed appropriately.

Safeguarding

The trustees recognise their responsibility to promote an environment in which beneficiaries, volunteers, visitors, speakers and others participating in the charity's activities are treated with dignity and appropriately protected from harm.

Safeguarding considerations form part of the planning and oversight of the charity's activities, including virtual activities and events involving external participants or speakers.

The trustees remain committed to reviewing safeguarding arrangements periodically and ensuring that concerns are identified, reported and addressed appropriately.

Risk Management and Internal Controls

The trustees have considered the principal risks facing the charity and the measures required to manage those risks appropriately.

Principal areas considered include financial sustainability, dependence upon voluntary income, volunteer capacity, safeguarding, reputational risk, digital and social media activity, event delivery and governance.

The charity maintains financial controls designed to safeguard charitable funds, ensure that expenditure is appropriately authorised and maintain suitable records of income and expenditure.

The trustees consider the current arrangements proportionate to the charity's size and activities. Governance, risk management and internal controls will continue to be reviewed as the organisation develops.

Fundraising

The charity remained principally dependent upon voluntary donations and contributions from members and supporters during the year.

No significant formal fundraising campaign was undertaken during 2025.

The trustees recognise that dependence upon a relatively narrow income base creates a potential sustainability risk. The charity therefore intends to consider appropriate opportunities for voluntary giving, fundraising and grant funding that are consistent with its charitable objectives and values.

Plans for Future Periods

The trustees intend to build upon the charity's activities and development during 2025 while ensuring that growth remains proportionate to available financial and volunteer resources.

Priorities for future periods include strengthening the regular programme of spiritual teaching, meditation and reflective practice; developing the Divine Code annual conference as a principal platform for deeper spiritual education; providing appropriate opportunities for in-person engagement alongside virtual provision; extending community outreach and collaboration; improving the collection of participation, feedback and impact information; strengthening governance, safeguarding and risk management arrangements; and developing a broader and more sustainable income base.

The charity will also continue to develop its digital presence to make its educational and spiritual resources accessible to a wider community.

Conclusion

During 2025, Wisdom in Flow International continued to pursue its charitable objectives despite operating with limited financial resources.

The charity maintained its programme of spiritual teaching, meditation and community engagement, continued to extend access through digital provision and delivered Divine Code 2025, its three-day annual conference.

The year also reflected the continued development of the organisation's identity as Wisdom in Flow International, with an emphasis on spiritual awakening, divine identity, conscious living, personal transformation and the practical application of spiritual principles.

Financially, the charity received £575 and spent £539, producing a surplus of £36. The trustees consider this a satisfactory outcome given the charity's modest income and continued programme delivery, while recognising the importance of strengthening income and reserves over time.

The trustees express their gratitude to the charity's members, volunteers, speakers, donors, participants and other supporters whose contributions made the year's activities possible.

The trustees remain committed to responsible governance, transparency, sound financial stewardship and ensuring that the charity's resources are applied effectively in pursuit of its charitable purposes and for public benefit.
