2. Objectives and Activities

Charitable Objectives:

The Flow Foundation aggregates global micro-donations to fund charities advancing humanitarian needs. By focusing on the prevention or relief of poverty, disaster relief, and development, we transform small public donations into impactful aid to support those in need. Our grants are aimed at advancing health, saving lives, and alleviating poverty through partnerships with other charities and organisations.

Activities in the Reporting Period:

The charity adopted its new name ‘Flow Foundation’ on 21 March 2026, which was changed from ‘Almsly Foundation’. We made this change as we feel our new name better represents our brand and mission, connoting the flow of aid, flow of funds, donations, love and help from and to world citizens and organisations. We believe the name is also more internationally recognisable and can be pronounced and identified more easily across multiple cultures and languages, which supports our global mission.

Aside from our name change, during the financial year ending 5 April 2026, the Flow Foundation remained in its development phase. The charity has been focused on:

- Developing the charity's platform (web app) to support future activities.
- Establishing governance structures and operational processes.
- Ensuring compliance with regulatory requirements.

No income was generated, and no expenditures were incurred during this period.

3. Financial Review

There were no financial transactions during the reporting period. As the charity is still in its setup phase, there are no reserves, income, or expenditures to report.

4. Plans for the Future

The Flow Foundation plans to launch its platform in the next financial year. The focus will be on:

- Finalising the web app and deploying live.
- Initiating outreach programs and marketing initiatives to raise awareness.
- Exploring funding opportunities to support the charity's activities.
- Exploring partnership opportunities with humanitarian organisations.

5. Declaration

The trustees declare that they have approved this trustees' annual report.
