When Lord Roborough gifted this hall in 1955, it was for the “physical, mental and social development” of the people of Walkhampton. That vision is still alive today—and the hall continues to play a vital role at the centre of our community.

We host a wide range of weekly activities, including Pilates, yoga, bowls, body conditioning, Dartmoor Border Morris and the Art Club. Private bookings are increasing, and our Bingo evenings continue to bring people together while raising essential funds.

The weekly coffee morning, now running for over 16 years, remains the heartbeat of village life—a place where people of all ages come together. Outside, the play park, playing field and allotments continue to provide valued space for recreation and wellbeing.

This year we’ve also delivered major improvements: expanding the car park, improving access, tackling drainage issues, and repainting the hall. These achievements reflect not just successful grant funding, but the dedication and hard work of a small group of volunteers.

And that is the reality we must face. Everything you see here depends on a handful of people. They give their time to organise bookings, run events, maintain the hall and grounds, and solve the countless small problems that keep things running. Without them, this hall would simply not exist as it does today.

We are especially grateful to Pete Shapcott vwho steps down as a trustee this year. His years of commitment, leadership, and steady guidance—particularly through Project George and the coffee mornings—have been invaluable. While we’re delighted he will remain involved, his stepping down is a timely reminder that we need others to step forward.

Because without new volunteers, this won’t continue. Things won’t stay as they are—they will begin to slow, then decline.

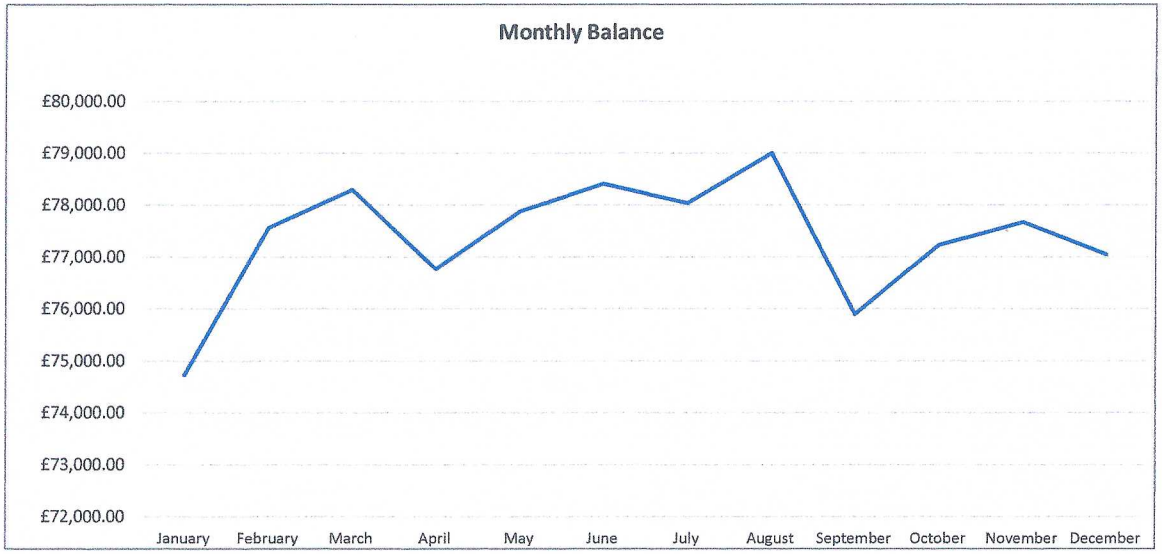

So if you value this hall, please don’t assume someone else will step in. This is your opportunity to help protect something that belongs to all of us. Even a small amount of time can make a real difference.
